GROWING EXPENSES.

A recent Washington dispatch revealed the fact that Senators of both parties are getting tired of shouldering the responsibility for increased appropriations. Since the discovery that the surplus was melting away the Democratic leaders in the House have been pleading the baby act and telling how the Senate has increased the aggregate in nearly every instance. Last year the Republican members of the Senate Appropriations Committee got tired of this talk and proposed to pass the bill just as they came from the House. Had this been done the whole machinery of the Government would have been thrown out of gear. The executive branches all pleaded that this should not be done and gave good reasons. The majority of the committee finally relented, but when the subject was up in the Senate Mr. Beck, who is the Democratic leader in the Appropriations Committee felt called upon to make a statement defending the committee and savagely scolding his party associates in the House for their trickery. He told how it was the habit of the House to leave out important matters with the sole purpose of making a false showing and unjustly putting on the Senate the odium of increasing appropriations. The truth is that the Fiftyeth Congress has been extravagant to the verge of recklessness, and the Republican Senate will have to take its share of the blame along with a Democratic House, a Democratic President and Democratic executive departments. But it is true that all this increased cost of Government is to carry on a Democratic Administration. The unwritten law of the Senate Appropriations Committee is that in providing money for the departments, partisanship shall be banished. Whenever Chairman Allison and Senator Beck agree that money ought to be appropriated for any object it is done. When they put their foot down, and they have had to do it pretty often under the Cleveland Administration, the money is pretty certain to be withheld. No sooner does an appropriation bill pass the House than the Cabinet officers and their bureau chiefs begin to appear before the Senate committee pointing out wherein the House has crippled the service by absolutely refusing money for necessary expenses. The excuse generally given by Mr. Randall's fellow-committeemen is that the deficiency can be fixed up in the Senate and the House can keep down the total. These representations from the Executive Departments are patiently sifted and where it is found that the money is really needed it is given, though the Republican Senators know Mr. Randall toward the end of the session will present his little tables showing how economical the House wanted to be. Yet some of the members of the Senate Committee have been startled at the growing cost of administering to the Government, and are beginning to wonder where four years more of Democratic administration will bring the finances of the country. Somehow Mr. Cleveland's chosen officials manage to require money which cannot safely be refused, though the sum grows larger every year. The Department of Justice furnishes a pointed illustration of the way expenses are kept up. From 1878 to 1885, inclusive, under the Republican Administration, the annual average was $3,201,804, the maximum being $3,386,018, in 1878. Since 1882 the appropriations have been as follows: In 1886, $3,437,580; 1887, $3,398,378; 1888, $3,060,710.

This shows what a pan-electric department of justice can do when it sets out to be economical. Its main economy has been in trying to cripple the Supervisors and Marshals whose business is to prevent election frauds in New York City.

Miss Sylvia Hardy, the biggest woman in Maine, commonly known as the "Maine giantess," died at her home in Wilton on Saturday night. She was nearly seven feet tall, and traveled with Barnum for several years.

The President has gone off on another fishing tour. He may catch his letter of acceptance this time.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 24th.—Beginning with the issue of to-morrow morning, the Illinois Freie Presse of this city, hitherto a Democratic paper, will support the Republican ticket, State and National. The paper will say: "After a careful study of the conditions of the people, both in Europe and America, we are constrained to believe the policies of the Republican party more sure to protect and promote the interests of laborers and poor men than those of the Democratic party, and believing this it would be unjust to our readers not to say so." The Freie Presse is now the only German Republican paper in this Congressional district.

Big Money for a Yearling.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 24th.—H. L. and Frank D. Stout, of this city, have received an offer of $5,000 for their yearling colt Dubuque. This colt is from the celebrated Nutwood, bought a couple of years ago in Kentucky for about $23,000. Nutwood's record is 2:18 1/4. Dubuque's dam is Nora Wilkes, by George Wilkes, record 2:22, and Nora's ancestor in the third generation is Woodford Mambrino, record 2:21. This is said to be the highest figure on record ever offered for a yearling in this country. The offer is made by J. M. Scribbling, of Virginia, Ill., and it will probably be accepted.

"Why should the railways of the United States that annually transport fifty millions of Canadian goods in transit, be deprived of their business and a large loss on account of a sudden whim of the President? Why should transit from Detroit and Buffalo and New York over both the American and Canadian lines of railroad be suspended when it has no relation whatever to the fishery question? Why should the large traffic between Quebec and Montreal on one hand and Portland and the Winter port of Canada, be summarily stopped at a caprice of the President, when that caprice is founded on chagrin over the course of an independent, but as he considers refractory, Senate? Is it the design of the President to make the fishery question odious, by embarrassing our commercial exchange along 3,000 miles of frontier, and inflicting on American communities a needless, vexatious, a perilous confusion of trade?"—James G. Bly.

That clause of the Federal Constitution which says "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed" has been temporarily suspended in Louisiana. The colored people are notified that they must not buy guns and are killed if they disobey. They do not seem to be particularly dangerous to the whites when they have them. No one seems to understand what has made such cowards of the people of the South. A quarter of a century ago they were not scared at the sight of the whole North in arms, and now they are scared out of their wits by a few negroes with shotguns. The breed has run down sadly.

On Tuesday Senator Allison furnished a table to show that the expenditures of the Government for the four years of Cleveland's administration exceeded by ninety-five millions the expenditures for four years of Garfield and Arthur's administration. Hale commented on the figures by a remark: "That, one by one, the illusions about the economy of the present Administration fade away." Senator Allison is Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and therefore in a position to know all about the financial affairs of the Government.

Seven Democratic ship-builders of Bath, Me., Issue an Address.

BATH, Me., August 24.—Bath is one of the most thrifty of the Maine cities. Her chief industry has been ship-building and in the construction of wooden vessels she has led the world. The city is the home of an intelligent class of ship-wrights and mechanics. To-day seven prominent citizens of the place of the highest business standing, who have always acted with the Democratic party, issued an address denouncing the course of the Democratic party on the tariff and declaring themselves unable to support Mr. Cleveland. The signers of the address are: J. B. Kelly, Joseph Varney, Joseph M. Vaneay, J. B. Perkins, William Liberty, Fred Wright and Fred A. Willis. They are all largely interested in ship-building and lumber, and employ large forces of men. The address says:

Although we have been Democrats in the past we look with grave fears and apprehension upon the position taken by the Democratic party on the question of free trade as against protection. Believing that American industries should be properly protected in order to maintain the present standard of wages and the comforts of the American home, we cannot support Mr. Cleveland in a policy that would tend to destroy the same. We believe that our people should be relieved of all war taxes, internal revenue taxation and a heavy reduction on the import duties of the necessities of life. We now appeal to the mechanics of Bath to give this all-important subject serious consideration."

On Tuesday Senator Allison furnished a table to show that the expenditures of the Government for the four years of Cleveland's administration exceeded by ninety-five millions the expenditures for four years of Garfield and Arthur's administration. Hale commented on the figures by a remark: "That, one by one, the illusions about the economy of the present Administration fade away." Senator Allison is Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and therefore in a position to know all about the financial affairs of the Government.

Seven Democratic ship-builders of Bath, Me., Issue an Address.

BATH, Me., August 24.—Bath is one of the most thrifty of the Maine cities. Her chief industry has been ship-building and in the construction of wooden vessels she has led the world. The city is the home of an intelligent class of ship-wrights and mechanics. To-day seven prominent citizens of the place of the highest business standing, who have always acted with the Democratic party, issued an address denouncing the course of the Democratic party on the tariff and declaring themselves unable to support Mr. Cleveland. The signers of the address are: J. B. Kelly, Joseph Varney, Joseph M. Vaneay, J. B. Perkins, William Liberty, Fred Wright and Fred A. Willis. They are all largely interested in ship-building and lumber, and employ large forces of men. The address says:

Although we have been Democrats in the past we look with grave fears and apprehension upon the position taken by the Democratic party on the question of free trade as against protection. Believing that American industries should be properly protected in order to maintain the present standard of wages and the comforts of the American home, we cannot support Mr. Cleveland in a policy that would tend to destroy the same. We believe that our people should be relieved of all war taxes, internal revenue taxation and a heavy reduction on the import duties of the necessities of life. We now appeal to the mechanics of Bath to give this all-important subject serious consideration."

The "Illinois Freie Presse" Out For Harrison.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 24th.—Beginning with the issue of to-morrow morning, the Illinois Freie Presse of this city, hitherto a Democratic paper, will support the Republican ticket, State and National. The paper will say: "After a careful study of the conditions of the people, both in Europe and America, we are constrained to believe the policies of the Republican party more sure to protect and promote the interests of laborers and poor men than those of the Democratic party, and believing this it would be unjust to our readers not to say so." The Freie Presse is now the only German Republican paper in this Congressional district.

"Why should the railways of the United States that annually transport fifty millions of Canadian goods in transit, be deprived of their business and a large loss on account of a sudden whim of the President? Why should transit from Detroit and Buffalo and New York over both the American and Canadian lines of railroad be suspended when it has no relation whatever to the fishery question? Why should the large traffic between Quebec and Montreal on one hand and Portland and the Winter port of Canada, be summarily stopped at a caprice of the President, when that caprice is founded on chagrin over the course of an independent, but as he considers refractory, Senate? Is it the design of the President to make the fishery question odious, by embarrassing our commercial exchange along 3,000 miles of frontier, and inflicting on American communities a needless, vexatious, a perilous confusion of trade?"—James G. Bly.

That clause of the Federal Constitution which says "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed" has been temporarily suspended in Louisiana. The colored people are notified that they must not buy guns and are killed if they disobey. They do not seem to be particularly dangerous to the whites when they have them. No one seems to understand what has made such cowards of the people of the South.
